Trefach Farmhouse, Nevern Nr Newport, SA42 0NQ

It is a truism that you can't "fake" history and Trefach Farmhouse has its Grade II listed origins going all the way back to 1630 with later mid 19th C additions that you see today. Located on the outskirts of the pretty little Pembrokeshire village of Nevern, itself some 4 miles from the popular coastal town of Newport, the substantial house is set in just under 4 acres of gardens and pastureland.

The whole property provides potential (with some additional work) for either multigenerational living or for holiday letting income (subject to any consents required) by utilising the Coach House or the side wing (formerly known as The Chapel) or as now as one large house.

Parts of the house now need redecorating in places as you will see when viewing this large house but if an enthusiastic new owner were to spend some money on the property they would then be well rewarded in the knowledge that they have helped, in a small way, to keep this historic house standing for another 400 years.

Extract From Historic Houses Of Pembs - TREFACH, Nevern

Home of the Lloyd family in the 17th and 18th centuries. John Lloyd was assessed for five hearths in 1670. In 1638 he had placed his daughter Elizabeth with Richard and Dorothy Jones to be educated but was sued by the latter in 1642 for refusing to pay the tuition fees. John Lloyd was the grandson of Jenkin Lloyd of Llanfair Clydogau, Cards. Jenkin had two sons, Rees and Walter, who married Joyce, daughter of Griffith Lloyd of Forest, Carms. Rees who was of Trefach married Elizabeth Philipps widow, the daughter of Thomas Bowen of Pentre Ifan. They had a son and heir John who married Elizabeth, daughter of Alban Owen of Hellys in 1632, and Dorothy who married Thomas Lloyd of Llanfair Clydogau, Cards.

John and Elizabeth had three sons and one daughter, Rees who succeeded to Trefach, John, Elizabeth and another Rees. Rees the elder, married Margaret, widow of Thomas Williams of Haverfordwest, mercer in 1654. They had a son, John, viv. 1682, and a daughter. John was still at Trefach in 1712 and he had one son, Thomas, will proved 1 April 1738, and three daughters, Elinor who married John Foley of Ridgeway, prenuptial settlement dated 21 April 1712, Margaret viv. 1713, and Rebecca who married Rev. William Laugharne of Treprisk.

Extract Continued - In the 18th century the Bowen family were in possession - Lewis Bowen of Trefach is mentioned in 1743. His daughter and heiress, Catherine, married firstly John Lewis of Egremont and secondly Thomas Lewis who was 'of Trefach' iure uxoris. David Lewis, son of the first marriage succeeded. He married Jane, daughter of John Nicholas and Jane his wife, prenuptial settlement dated 18 November 1743. In 1771 Stephen Lewis of Trefach; subscribed towards two copies of the Rev.

William Evans's translation of Canwyll y Cywry.

He was sworn a burgess of Cardigan in Easter 1756 and had died by 1794. His only child Anne married John Evans, son of Rev. James Evans of Mathry in 1794. By 1840 Thomas Davies is listed as owner-occupier of Trefach a holding of 309 acres.

Directions - From Cardigan, take the A487 towards Fishguard. Follow this road for approx. 9.5 miles, passing through Llantood, Eglwysrwrw, Felindre Farchog and then take the next right hand turn towards Nevern (B4582) / Trewern Arms pub. Follow this road into Nevern, pass the Trewern Arms pub on your left and over the river bridge and then take the first left turn. Follow this road up the hill for approx. 1 mile, pass the entrance to Trefach Farm on your right and the entrance to Trefach Farmhouse is the next on your right with a red dragon and cockerel sign.
